Claims 1-17, 36, 37 and 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the compounds set forth on page 66 of the specification, does not reasonably provide enablement for a vast number of compounds encompassed by the present claims and for prodrugs and metabolites of the claimed compounds. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

A conclusion of lack of enablement means that, based on the evidence regarding each of the factors below, the specification, at the time the application was filed, would not have taught one skilled in the art how to make and/or use the full scope of the claimed invention without undue experimentation.

(A) The breadth of the claims.

The claims encompass an immense number of species.

(B) The level of predictability in the art.

It is well known in the pharmaceutical art that even small changes in the structural formula of a compound can lead to major changes in the activity and/or properties of said compound.

(C) The amount of direction provided by the inventor.

The specification on page 66 discloses twenty specific compounds of similar structural formulas. For example, in all of the specific compounds disclosed the variables X1 and X2 represent -OMe, X4 and X5 represent H and X3 is =O, L-fucosyl,

D-cellobiosyl, D-lactosyl or D-isomaltosyl. However, this guidance is not commensurate with the full scope of the claimed invention.

(D) The existence of working examples.

The specification provides 14 working examples of compounds having effect on migration of cancer cells and two working examples on the effect of compounds on survival of P388 bearing mouse.

(E) The quantity of experimentation needed to make or use the invention based on the content of the disclosure.

Because there is no way to predict a priori which compounds will be active from the specification or chemical structures alone, an extraordinary amount of trial and error experimentation is required to identify the active compounds.

Claims 1-17, 36, 37 and 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The terminology "compound comprising" (claim 1 and claim 14, all occurrences) renders the claims indefinite in that it leaves the structural formula open-ended i.e. the scope and metes of the claimed invention cannot be determined.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir.

1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 17 is provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of copending Application No. 10/538,993. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claimed compounds are within the scope of the compounds claimed in the copending application.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claims 18-33 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
